

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A charging mat with embedded communications capabilities for providing power to a portable device which is set upon the charging mat and for providing connection to various peripheral devices while the portable device rests upon the charging mat. It is envisioned that by including the communications capabilities within a charging mat, the charging mat technology will provide most capabilities currently provided by docking stations and docking bars.